* * * There are three other specimens of this rare penny in existence, viz.: the two belonging to the late Mr. H.
 Montagu, both of which were sold in these rooms, one in 1888 for £46 (18 grs.), and the other in 1893 for £26 (19·7 grs.). The third specimen is the "Lawrence" piece (19·8 grs.), which is now in the collection of Lord Grantley. The authenticity of these pennies has been defended at length in the pages of the Numismatic Chronicle by the late Mr. Montagu (3 s. vii, 132), and Dr. L. A. Lawrence (3 s. xiii, 40), their former owners; and they are described by Mr. H. Grueber in the B.M. Catalogue of the Anglo-Saxon Series, vol. ii, p. 21, and also in the Guide to the Coins of Great Britain, fourth edition, 1905 (Thorburn and Grueber), so that in face of this overwhelming evidence of some of the foremost numismatists of the day, the genuineness of these pennies has been generally accepted. The coin in this sale appears to be a fourth specimen (weighing 18 grs.), which seems to be from the same dies as the other three.
